

MEET THE TEAM

Hello! My name is Jasmine, and I am the Director of Patient Support at Recover Cann.

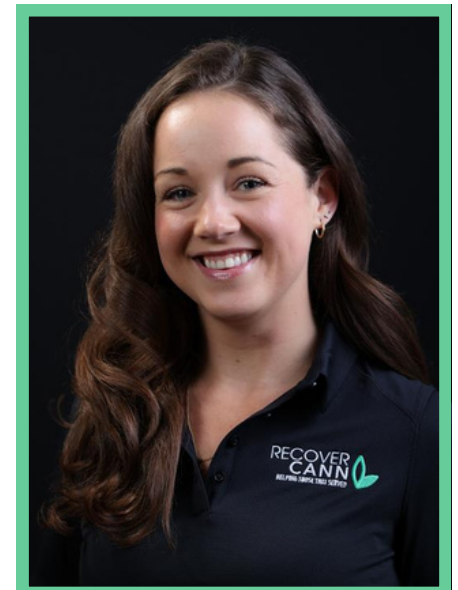

Supporting others in their wellness journeys is my passion, and I feel truly privileged to work with patients every day. My background in fitness and health has given me the tools to help people achieve their goals and become the best versions of themselves. I love connecting with others, learning their stories, and finding ways to make a positive difference in their lives.

Outside of work, I enjoy exploring the outdoors, hiking, practicing yoga, and embracing activities that promote balance and well-being. I'm excited to get to know you and support you every step of the way!

Hi there! My name is Carly- I am the General Manager here at Recover Cann. I pride myself on being what we call our "Blue Cross Warrior"

Here at Recover Cann, we put the patient before the profit. This allows me to pour myself into ensuring you have access to the cannabis coverage you have earned and are entitled to through your service. I work tirelessly to fight for a smooth process from start to finish, by knowing the ins and outs of the insurance coverage process as well as educating you and advocating for you along the way. I am competitive as they come and I'll go to bat for you, especially with Blue Cross to ensure your entitlements are covered.

You are my priority. You are not just a number here. Your health and well-being is our top priority, and your sacrifice does not get forgotten.

Hi, I'm Krystal, Director of Quality & Business Development at Recover Cann. I'm your go-to for clinic collaboration, procurement, and boots on the ground patient support. As a patient first, my approach is personal—I'm here to empower others through education, advocate for quality, and offer compassionate, judgment-free support.

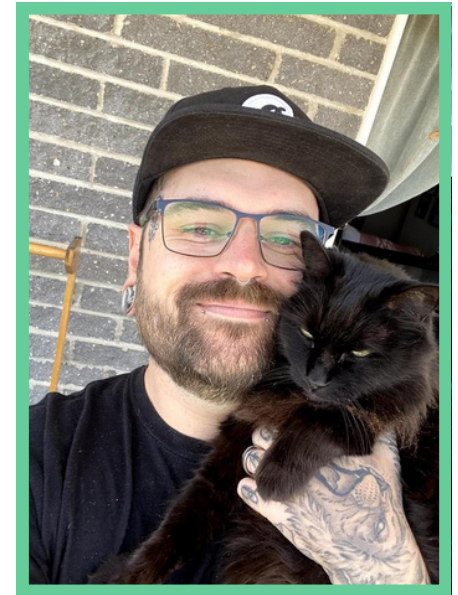

With extensive experience in the cannabis industry, patient advocacy, and alternative healing, I'm dedicated to upholding the highest standards. I work to strengthen the voices of both patients and clinics, curating a tailored menu and providing the education needed to support a better quality of life.

I'm passionate about bringing the community together and holding the line of integrity in this industry, ensuring that we show up for Veterans the way they need and deserve.

Hello, my name is Jesse. I'm passionate about helping others, which is why I work in patient support at Recover Cann.

As a medical cannabis patient myself, I understand its benefits and am dedicated to supporting others on their wellness journeys. With experience in the food and tattoo industries, I've honed my communication and customer service skills.

Outside of work, music is a big part of my life, fueling my passion for connecting with and assisting others.
